BACKGROUND & OBJECTIVE

The Asia-Europe Foundation (ASEF) is seeking reporters aged between 18 and 30 years from Asia-Europe Meeting (ASEM) partner countries to cover its 2017 calendar of projects on the theme of Access to Education and Employment.

This is an unprecedented opportunity to apply your trade and gain exposure to the rich diversity of people, places and stories across Asia and Europe. Whether you are itching to shadow people with disabilities in New Zealand, report on the venture of a young entrepreneur in Korea, celebrate the dedication of a school teacher in Finland, or interview ASEM Foreign Ministers in Myanmar, the ASEF Education Department can give you the opportunity.

The selected ASEFEdu Young Reporter(s) will cover up to 6 projects that span the two regions ¹:

1. 13th ASEF Classroom Network Conference, 2 days, June 2017, Switzerland
2. 21st ASEF Summer University (ASEFSU21), 2 weeks, August 2017, Australia and New Zealand
3. 6th ASEF Rectors’ Conference & Students’ Forum (ARC6), 5 days, October 2017, Singapore
4. 8th Model ASEM, in conjunction the 13th ASEM Foreign Ministers’ Meeting (ASEM FMM13), 7 days, November 2017, Myanmar

The stories told by the ASEFEdu Young Reporters will shine a light on the richness, diversity and vibrancy of Asia and Europe.

To apply, please complete this application form before Sunday 30 April 2017, 23:59 GMT.

In the application form, please indicate to which projects you are able to commit; the more, the better, as we look to build a long-term working relationship. Depending on availability, the selected ASEFEdu Young Reporters might work individually or part of a team when covering each ASEF education project.

Please see below for a breakdown of the deliverables, as well as the further information about the ASEF education projects in 2017.

Deliverables & Specifications
As an individual ASEFEdu Young Reporter, or part of a group of selected ASEFEdu Young Reporters, we expect you to be creative; and we will give you the freedom to be so.

Using your own communication channels and social media accounts (including, but not limited to, Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram, as well as traditional media outlets), the ASEFEdu Young Reporter(s) will cover the main activities of the projects, as well as the wider implications and the personal stories of the people involved.

This reporting should be creative and appeal to an audience as diverse as the populations of Asia and Europe, but particularly:
- Young people (some who have, and some who have not, attended ASEF projects in the past)
- Academic, non-governmental, civil society and business organisations (some that have, and some that have not, partnered with ASEF projects in the past)
- Governments and institutions (who fund ASEF projects)

Depending on your preferred medium for reporting, for each project you attend, you should contribute:
1. At least 1 article before the event (up to 6 weeks prior); 1 article per day during the on-site project; and 1 article after each project (2 weeks after) and submit these to ASEF for publication.
2. On-site (video) interviews with selected speakers, partners and participants.
3. Pre-, on-site, and post-event social media coverage (e.g. short quotes, stories etc.), including, but not limited to, Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram.
4. Post-event editing and possible redrafting.

For each deliverable, the selected ASEFEdu Young Reporter(s) must agree that:
- All coverage will reflect ASEF’s corporate identity and brand guidelines (brand.asef.org). The opinions and content published by the ASEFEdu Young Reporters do not necessarily represent the opinions of ASEF. All content is to be sent to ASEF in the first instance, before publishing, and ASEF therefore reserves the right to publish or feature the content through its own communication channels.
- Text content is to be provided to ASEF in MS Word format.

If a reporter is selected for multiple projects, ASEF reserves the right to discontinue its relationship with the selected young reporter(s) based on the performance of the individual(s).
