Princes Marie will soon commence work

By Kirsten Lund Hansen

Princes Marie has no intention of taking a year of maternity leave. The Princess and Prince Joachim became parents on the 4th of May to a baby boy who will be baptized in the Moegeltoender church on Sunday the 26th of July. The Princess will go to work on the 27th of October in time for the International teachers’ conference in Soenderborg.

Teachers from all over Europe and most of Asia will meet here for the eighth time, to plan and carry through international school projects for the next year. The conference and projects are marked by climate change and sustainable development and how it affects schools and teaching. Princes Marie will attend and speak on the first day of the Conference. The opening itself, which will take place the previous evening will be attended by the Minister of Education, Bertel Haarder and Soenderborg’s Major, Jan Prokopke (Social Democrats).

Teachers do not need to attend the conference to join the projects. The organisers informed that you can join the projects on the website www.aec.asef.org.
